The Fathers and Sons Banquet

Didsbury was en fête Friday evening when 190 fathers and sons of the town and district responded to the invitation of the local committee of the Rosebud district Y.M.C.A. organization to attend a "fathers and sons" banquet in the New Opera House. The purpose of the banquet was to create an interest in the work of the Y.M.C.A., which is just being organized in the Rosebud district, and its successful success undoubtedly put this deserving organization on a firm foundation in Didsbury.

Credit is due to Chairman P. P. Reed, Secy. Miller and Treas. Austin, and Directors J. V. Berscht and Dr. Clarke, for the able manner in which the banquet was organized and carried out, and to Mr. Morrison, our local contractor, who executed the arrangement of the hall most satisfactorily. And the most hearty thanks of all present are extended to the Women's Institute, who, assisted by the mothers of the boys present, put up a most excellent and sumptuous repast which was thoroughly enjoyed by all the participants.

The program which followed the supper opened with a half hour singing of catchy choruses, old time songs, etc., followed by ten one-minute speeches by five fathers and five sons on their ideals in sons and fathers. The speaker of the evening, Mr. Morrison, a well known authority of agriculture in the University of Alberta, gave a very instructive address on the relationship of father to son and son to father, emphasizing the importance of physical training in the development of the boys.

A comic chorus by ten boys, who took occasion to bring in the name of our local celebrity, Mr. Parker Reed, was much enjoyed by the audience; and Mr. Paulding, district supervisor of the Y.M.C.A., followed with a very able address on the work of the organization. Ten more one minute speeches were given by the fathers and sons, and a vote of thanks by Mr. Chambers to the ladies was enthusiastically applauded by the gathering.

This banquet was such a success that the ladies of the district are now planning a "mothers and daughters" banquet, when the tables will be turned on the men folks, who will be called upon to cater to their better halves.

The Curling Club

The interest in the bonspiel, now being played, is becoming greater as the game narrows down to fewer rinks. Monday night's games finished the preliminaries. There is blood in the eye of the skips now, and a grim, determined expression on their handsome countenances. This is due, no doubt, to having had a long, watchful look at the prizes now displayed in A. G. Studer's window. The prizes were given to the Club by the local business men and are worth their weight in gold, consisting, as they do, of flour, tea, coal, etc., together with articles suitable for the younger men of the Club who are not encumbered with a large and hungry family.

Some very close and hard contested games have been played, but if the weather man will be good and let the ice remain for another week, some of the greatest games ever played this far north will be witnessed on the local rinks.

Growing Power Of Western Canada

A recent census dispatch reveals the fact that, according to official estimates, Quebec continues to outstrip Ontario in increase in population and is steadily closing up the gap between the two provinces in total numbers of people. This is a development which has been in progress for some years, owing to the result that Ontario is gradually losing that percentage of industrial people which it once enjoyed at Ottawa.

As is well known, the loss of representation of the provinces in the House of Commons is a result of the British North America Act, which provides that equal representation shall be given to each province, and each of the other provinces in number as will give the same proportion of representation to its population as the number of members in the population of Quebec, and it also provided that following each decennial census a redistribution of representation shall take place on the basis of the population figures then ascertained.

From the census of 1901 the unit of representation for all Canada was 22,500—this, a small group of 22,500 people was entitled to a member at Ottawa. This gave Ontario 92 members, Quebec 65, a difference of 27. As a result of the 1901 census and the new unit, but before the redistribution of representation, the unit was used in 1907, with the result that Ontario's representation fell from 92 to 86, because, proportionately, Quebec's growth in population was more rapid than Ontario's. Following the census of 1911, the unit was again used, this time to 30,819, and Ontario lost four more members and is now represented at Ottawa to 82. On the basis of the recent official estimates, Ontario will follow the census of last year, lose at least two more members, leaving it only 80.

Thus in two decades Ontario's representation will have decreased by 12, leaving only a margin of 15 between Ontario and Quebec, as compared with 27 only twenty years ago. The same change in numbers is taking place in the Maritime Provinces are concerned. Nova Scotia, which had 20 members prior to 1901, dropped to 18 after the census of this year, and to 16 following the 1911 census. New Brunswick fell from 11 to 13 and later to 11. Prince Edward Island from 5 to 4, and now to 3.

The opposite result is shown in the West. Prior to 1901 Manitoba had only 7 members, British Columbia 6, and the Northwest Territories 4, a total of 17. The census of 1901 raised these figures as follows: Manitoba to 10, a gain of 3; British Columbia 7, a gain of 1; Northwest Territories 10, a gain of 6; Yukon 1—total 28. Following the 1911 census, these figures were again increased, and today the representation is: Manitoba 13, British Columbia 13, Saskatchewan 16, Alberta 12, Yukon 1. Total 37.

Thus while the representation of the five Eastern Provinces in the House of Commons decreased by 10 in twenty years, or an average loss of a member a year, the representation of the four Western Provinces and the Yukon has increased by 40, or an average of two additional members a year. And if the same proportionate increase in population in the West is revealed by the census of next year—as seems altogether likely, judging from the recent official estimate of Saskatchewan's population, which places it now at almost double the 1901 figure—the voting power of the West in the House of Commons will be enormously increased, while not only relatively, but actually, that of the East will be decreased.

The effect of this growing political power of the West in the national parliament is fraught with tremendous possibilities in the shaping of national policies and in a probable very radical change in the financial and fiscal policy of the Dominion. This increased power in national affairs, coupled with the pronounced tendency of western people not to divide upon old party lines, but to unite upon great questions of principle and policy irrespective of former party divisions and views, clearly indicates that a new realignment is about to take place and that all former political conditions are due for a shake-up.

The incidence of population is, therefore, bound to have a profound effect on future Canadian policy. This will be true not only as between West and East, but is markedly in evidence within the boundaries of the old provinces. Ontario is becoming more and more an industrial center, where the populations of the manufacturing cities and towns are growing while the rural population is declining. Quebec, too, is developing rapidly in an industrial sense, but in that province, unlike Ontario, agriculture is also expanding. In fact, Quebec is forging ahead of Ontario in more than population, thanks to the far-seeing and aggressive good roads and agricultural policies inaugurated by the provincial authorities. As a result, the natural resources of Quebec are being more rapidly and scientifically developed than are those of any other province at the present time.

Students of Canadian affairs, and those interested in our national development, may well follow with exceptional keenness the changes now being wrought in all national, financial and economic policies as the direct outcome of western development and growth in population, influence and political power.

A Keeperless Lighthouse

Small Beacons Have Greatly Aided Navigation in Alaskan Waters

Along the coast of Alaska, where it would be difficult to maintain reliable lighthouse keepers, there have been established many automatically flashing beacons, each of which can operate for nearly five months on one charge of gas. A lighthouse with its keeper, alone among the wildest scenery, is always a romantically interesting mark of progress. A lighthouse without a keeper, however, is, perhaps, a still greater sign of progress, in that it frees many a man from the temporary necessity of staying where he might not want to be. At first some navigators were a bit slow in getting used to the quickly flashing lights. Because of the rapidity of the flash, one might hardly know whether he was coming to, or going from such a light. In the end, though, these small beacons, which cost only about $1,500 each to install, have greatly aided navigation in Alaskan waters.

STORMY WEATHER HARD ON BABY

The stormy, blustery weather which we have during February and March is extremely hard on children. Conditions make it necessary for the mother to keep them in the house. They are often confined to overheat, badly ventilated rooms and catch colds which rack their whole system. To guard against this a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. This will not fail to break up colds and keep the health of the baby in good condition till the brighter days come along. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

If Thin, Nervous, Run Down, Depressed, This Will Help!

The wear and strain of life has tended in recent years to produce nervous debility as a large percentage of our population.

Thousands are affected with a feeling they can't exactly describe. They are always tired and droopy, lack ambition, have poor appetite, look pale and suffer from depressing headaches and insomnia.

This condition is full of peril. It is the stepping stone to invalidism, the beginning of a shattered constitution.

We advise everyone in this condition to take a good medicine at once and try to get well while yet there is time.

Probably no better advice can be given than to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which have become famous in restoring the sick to good health. A general toning up of the system at once takes place. The whole body is vivified by rich and pure blood. The appetite is increased, food is digested and naturally strength rapidly increases. Headaches go because the bowels are regulated and all wastes are carried off.

There is no excitement about using Dr. Hamilton's Pills because they certainly restore the sick, as a trial will quickly prove. Just as good for the old as the young, and suitable to the needs of women and children. This grand family medicine should be in every home.

THE COW PUNCHER

ROBERT J. C. STEAD

Copyrighted, Canada, 1918, By The Mueson Book Co., Ltd., Toronto, Printed By Special Arrangement.

They found a quiet tea-room. When they were seated Dave, without preliminaries, plunged into the subject nearest his heart.

"I have been wanting an opportunity to talk to you—wanting it for weeks," he said. "But it always seemed—"

"Always seemed," he completed his thought. "You didn't disguise your annoyance very well the other night." "You blame me for being annoyed."

"No. But I rather blame you for shouting it. You see, I was annoyed too."

"Then you had nothing to do with—with shouting about the situation that existed?"

"Certainly not. Surely you do not think that I would—that I would let her go on saying 'You see'?"

"I beg your pardon," Dave said. "I should have known better. But it seemed such a trivial, unimportant thing."

"She was loving with her eyes, and for once her eyes avoided him. 'You should hardly think,' Dave said, 'that you should hardly conclude—that what has been, you know, gives you the right—entitles you to your attention.' Perhaps not. But it gives me the right to a fair chance to win a monopoly of your attention." He was speaking low and earnestly and his voice had a deep, rich timbre in it that thrilled and almost frightened her. She could not resist his straightforwardness. She felt that he was already asserting his claim upon her, and there was something tender and delightful in the sense of being claimed by such a man.

"I must have a fair chance to win that monopoly," he repeated. "How did it happen that Concord was present?"

"I don't know. It just happened. A little after you telephoned me he called up and asked for you, and the next I knew she said he was coming up to spend the evening. And then I said you were coming."

"And what did she say?"

"Irene hesitated. 'Please don't make me tell you,' she whispered at length."

"Don't hesitate from any fear of hurting me," he said. "I don't want to hurt you. I know I have failed to make a hit with your mother. On your account I could with I had been more successful, but perhaps she will be fairer when she knows me better. What did she say?"

"She just said, 'That poor puncher! And I just told her that you were the man who put the punch in the'

Conward & Elden firm—you see I am learning your slang—and that everybody says so, and a few more things I told her, too."

But Dave had dropped into a sudden reverie. It was not so remarkable as it seemed that Concord should have telephoned Mrs. Hardy almost immediately after he had used the line.

Conward's telephone and Dave's were on the same circuit. It was as simple matter for Conward, if he had happened to lift the receiver during Dave's conversation with Irene, to overhear all that was said. That might happen accidentally; at least, it might begin innocently enough. The fact that Conward had acted up on the information indicated two things first, that he had no very troublesome sense of honor—which Dave had long suspected—and second, that he had deliberately planned a conflict with Dave's visit to the Hardy home. This indicated a policy of some kind; a scheme deeper than Dave was as yet able to fathom. He would at least guard against any further eavesdropping on his telephone.

He took a card from his pocket, and made some figures on it. "If you should have occasion to call me at the office at any time, please use that number, and ask for me," he said. "It is the accountant's number. There's a reason."

It flattered his masculine authority that she put the card in her pocket without comment. She did not ask him to explain. Dave knew that when a woman no longer asks for explanations she pays man her highest compliment. The cups were empty; the sandwiches and cake were gone, but they lingered on.

"I have been wondering," Dave ventured at length, "just where you stand—with you. You remember our agreement?"

"She averted her eyes, but her voice was steady. 'You have observed the terms?' she said."

"Yes—in all essential matters. I come to you now—in accordance with those terms. You said that we would divorce. Now I know you mean it. I have always known since those wonderful days in the foothills, those days from which I date my existence. Anything worth while that has ripened in my life was sown by your smile and your confidence and your strange pride in me, back in those sunny days. And I would repay it all—and at the same time double my debt—by retaining it to you, if I may."

"I realize that I owe you an answer now, Dave," she said, frankly. "And I find it very hard to make that answer. Marriage means so much more to a woman than it does to a man. I know you don't think so. But it does. Man after the honeymoon returns to his first love as his day's work. But woman cannot go back. . . . Don't misunderstand me, Dave. I would be ashamed to say I doubt myself, or that I don't know my mind, but you and I are no longer boy and girl. We are man and woman now. And I just want time—just want time to be sure that—"

"I suppose you are right," he answered. "I will not try to hurry your decision. I will only try to give you an opportunity to know me to be sure, as you said. Then, when you are sure, you will speak. I will not regret the delay."

His words had something of the ring of an ultimatum, but no endeavoring to win him might have understood could have gripped her heart so surely. She knew they were the words of a man in deadly earnest, a man who had himself in hand, a man who made love with the same serious purpose as he had employed in the other projects of his successful life. She raised her eyes to his face. Decision was stamped all over it; from the firm jaw to the steady eyes that met her own. Suddenly she began to tremble. It was not fear. Afterward she knew it to have been pride—pride in his great mastery of himself in a judgment so sure of itself that it dilled not a moment in stating the terms upon which all future happiness might hinge. For if Dave and Irene's heart be had deliberately closed the only door through which he might hope to approach it. But Irene instinctively knew that he had not misread her heart; it seemed that this bold, daring man had captured the citadel at a stroke. Had it not been for some strange sense of shame—some fear that too ready capitulation might be taken for weakness—she would have surrendered then.

"I think that is best," she managed to say. "We will let our acquaintance ripen."

He rose and helped her with her light and she felt a little better. In the street he said, "If you will wait a moment I will take you home in my car. Their eyes met, and each of them knew what it meant. It meant announcement to her mother that she had met Dave down town. It meant, perhaps, a suggestion to her mother's part that she had gone down town for that purpose.

It was far-reaching. But she said simply, "I should enjoy driving home with you."

On the way they planned that the following Sunday they would drive

New Decision on Status of Aliens

The Appeal Court in London has given an important decision on the status of an alien under the laws of the empire. The appellant was Heinrich Hermann Markwald, who was born in Germany, and settled in Australia in 1908. He obtained a certificate of naturalization and went to England at the outbreak of the war, and was required to register as an alien under the Aliens Registration Act. He refused and was prosecuted and convicted by a magistrate. On appeal, the divisional court upheld the conviction. The appeal court held that the appellant had not ceased to be an alien in London by virtue of his Australian certificate of naturalization and dismissed the appeal.

Is Your Nose Plugged? Have You Catarrh?

If Subject to Colds, Here Is Real Good Advice

Don't load your stomach with cough syrups. Send healing medication through the nostrils—send it into the passages that are subject to colds and catarrh. Easy to do this with Catarrhazone, which cures a cold in ten minutes. Even to the lungs goes the healing vapor of Catarrhazone—all through the bronchial tubes, nostrils and air passages—everywhere a trace of disease remains with Catarrhazone follow. You'll not have colds, nor will you suffer from catarrh, bronchitis, or other trouble if Catarrhazone is used. Get it today, but beware of dangerous cheap imitations. Be sure you get genuine Catarrhazone. Large size, two months' treatment, costs $1.00; small size, for example, 25¢; all dealers, or The Catarrhazone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Changing Status Of Afghanistan

New Ruler Negotiating With Russia's New Government

For a long period before the war Afghanistan was practically a British outpost for India. The Amir governed the country as he thought well, but for the better protection of India, the British restricted the Afghans from alliances with foreign powers. Indeed, the foreign affairs of the country were practically under British control, and for this right of restriction a handsome subsidy was paid annually to the Amir. Shortly after the war ended a new Amir reached the throne of Afghanistan as a result of the assassination of his predecessor and the new ruler invaded India and apparently expected a rising in India to occur simultaneously with his invasion. In this he was disappointed, and a British India army of a quarter of a million men met him near the border. There was some fighting, after which a new arrangement was made, under which the British subsidy was withdrawn and the Amir left free to control his own foreign affairs. The collapse of Russia is given as one reason for this concession, but another explanation is that Britain requires all her military resources in the far East to hold India itself in subjection. Meantime the new Afghani ruler is said to be negotiating a new treaty with the new government of Russia.

Famine Conditions In Petrograd Are Terrible

London.—Petrograd is described as a city suffering from famine, cold, disease and robbery, in a report just made by Professor Zeldner, of the Russian Red Cross, who has investigated conditions in the capital.

"Owing to want of fuel, the capital is becoming a desert," he says. "In a few houses only there are still some inhabitants, and even these generally live in their kitchens. Famine conditions in the city are terrible. If the population had not already accustomed itself to feeding on what people in normal circumstances never eat at all, they would have no food what ever."

"The water supply has stopped owing to the want of fuel, and the inhabitants draw their supply from the Neva or the canal, or use melted snow. Spotted typhus and Spanish influenza with various complications have put an end to the suffering of many unfortunate people. There are no medicines to be had at all. Only four hospitals are still open. Electric lights are permitted from five to eight p.m. only. Train cars run at certain hours and on only routes needed by the Bolsheviki. Authorities are powerless to guard public safety. Gangs of robbers are at work in the deserted quarters of the city, carrying off all that may have been left after the searches made by the Red army."

Must Banish Ex-Kaiser

Sir Auckland Geddes Says Allies Will Put Former Emperor on Trial

London.—Sir Auckland Geddes, Minister of National Service and Reconstruction, speaking at Andover, said the government intended to put the former German emperor on trial and carry out what the treaty has provided. But, he added, if Holland definitely declared her intention on the basis of international law, to provide asylum for him within Dutch territory, then he must say the former ruler could not reside on Dutch territory in Europe, and Holland must put him on some island belonging to her outside of Europe.

Set Profit on Woollens

New York.—Arthur Williams, federal price administrator, ruled that 10 per cent. is to be the maximum profit for woollen merchants. One firm that made a profit of $1.85 a yard on material purchased for $3.55, was given twenty-four hours to pay it back, recall it at a profit of not more than ten per cent., and pay their former victim $1.25 a yard.

DOCTOR URGED AN OPERATION

Instead I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Was Cured.

Baltimore, Md.—"Nearly four years I suffered from organic troubles, nervousness and heaviness and health was poor. After a month would have to stay in bed most of the time. My doctor's treatments would relieve me for a time but my doctor was always urging me to have an operation. My sister recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before consenting to an operation. I took five bottles of it and it has completely cured me. I feel as my friends who have any trouble of this kind what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—NELLIE B. BUTTINGHAM, 600 Calverton Rd., Baltimore, Md.

It is only natural for any woman to dread the thought of an operation. So many women have been restored to health by this famous remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after an operation has been advised that it will pay any woman who suffers from such ailments to consider trying this famous remedy to such a trying ordeal.

Finances of Count

Hohenzollern

Protest Is Entered Against Plan to Restore Exile's Property

Berlin.—Efforts to keep intact the fortune of former Emperor William are condemned in a long editorial printed by the Vorwarts. The newspaper says this movement is in behalf of a "man who ruined Germany."

"The bill now before the Prussian diet represents a masterpiece of old Prussian efficiency," says the editorial, "for the financial status of Count Hohenzollern is placed on the basis of his right to property, while nothing is said as to his guilt on the political situation. It is perhaps, well to remember that the national constitution gives the government the right to seize private fortunes."

Wilson Found Guilty

Former Member of R.N.W.M.P. Sentenced to Death for Murder of Wife

Saskatoon.—John Wilson, former member of the R.N.W.M.P., was found guilty of murdering his wife, Mary Wilson, by a jury in King's Court Bench here. Chief Justice Haultain immediately sentenced him to die upon the gallows at Prince Albert jail on April 23.

The jury deliberated one hour and fifty minutes. On receiving the verdict, Justice Haultain asked Wilson if he had anything to say. Immediately his appearance of apathy, which has featured the trial, passed and, jumping to his feet, he grasped the front of the docket and replied:

"Yes, sir, I wish to protest against the low-down, dirty methods of the policy in taking advantage of my condition of mind and body to obtain certain information from me."

Sentence was then pronounced and Wilson was hurled from the court, and was in his cell four minutes after the word "Guilty" was rendered. Wilson's counsel offered no defence. The prisoner was physically unable to stand the strain of going into the box, he told His Lordship.

Help For Vienna Children

Italian Trains Arrive to Take Away Those in Need for Remainder of Winter

Vienna.—An Italian train has just arrived to take 2,500 children of Vienna to Milan for the remainder of the winter. The train brought several carloads of badly needed Red Cross supplies.

The departure of these children completes the tenth contingent sent to Italian towns to recuperate.

Virtually all the towns of Northern Italy have expressed willingness to receive some of the children into families there free of charge. Only lack of transportation facilities prevents a wholesale exodus of children from Vienna to Italy.

Thousands of children, too feeble to undertake the long journey, have been gathered in hospitals where they will benefit greatly by the medical supplies just arrived.

Saw Socialist Spit on Flag

Albany.—A sensation was sprung at the trial of five suspended Socialist assemblymen here, when Ellen B. Chivers, a girl of 18, testified that she had seen Charles Solomon, one of the accused, spit on the United States flag during the war. She had, she said, volunteered her evidence as "the duty of any American." "I would not let you wipe your dirty feet on my platform," was another remark attributed to Solomon.

Offer Award for Flu Cure

Denver, Colo.—The Denver Post announces it will pay $25,000 to the physician finding a cure for influenza. The money is to be paid after the cure has been approved by the Rockefeller Foundation and the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

G. T. Shareholders And the Government

Sir Alfred Smithers Convening Meeting to Ratify the Agreement

London.—Sir Alfred Smithers, chairman of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, is convening a meeting of shareholders for the 19th instant to ratify the agreement between his company and the Canadian Government. He has issued a circular stating that the board of directors, after long and anxious consideration, unhesitatingly advises acceptance of the agreement. The circular says:

"The state of railway finance and working brought about by the war shows features common to the United States, Great Britain and Canada, but the United States saved shareholders from loss by guaranteeing the companies an average income for three years. The British Government at the beginning of the war, saved the British shareholders by guaranteeing the income for 1914, but no such assistance was given by the Canadian Government to Canadian railways."

"All through the negotiations the Canadian Government pressed the liabilities of the Grand Trunk, for the Grand Trunk Pacific was the chief reason for acquiring the Grand Trunk, on very moderate terms. It can be at once stated that, leaving out all other considerations, the increase of expenses, without an adequate increase of rates, has greatly aggravated the Grand Trunk Pacific position in relation to the Grand Trunk. When the Government of Canada becomes the owner of the great system that it will have when it acquires the Grand Trunk system, it can speedily bring such readjustment of rates into being as will permit of a fair return on capital invested."

The whole cause of the present difficulties of the Grand Trunk is its being required to carry on an ever-increasing business under the present phenomenal operating costs, without a corresponding increase in its rates, and that condition cannot be altered until the railway commission will allow an adequate increase."

Condemns Present Dental System

Chicago.—The American Academy of Dental Science has condemned gold crowns on teeth as unsanitary and productive of diseases. The organization also condemned the removal of nerves from decayed teeth preparatory to filling.

The delegate declared the present methods of extracting teeth need to be changed. Extractions in cases of persons over 20 years of age should be made in hospitals with the same treatment accorded other operations, he said.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS BANISHED HER BACKACHE

Mrs. Alice Roberts Felt Like a Different Woman After She Had Used the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Hathersage, Alta., February 9.—That Dodd's Kidney Pills are the remedy that sick women with aching backs are looking for is the lesson taught by the experience of Mrs. Alice Roberts, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place.

Mrs. Roberts felt tired all the time. Her backache was terrible. She used Dodd's Kidney Pills. That is why she says:

"Dodd's Kidney Pills did wonders for me. My back ached so that I could hardly do my work." Mrs. Roberts continues, "And I felt so tired all the time. My heart also bothered me."

"Six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills made me feel like a different person. Ask your neighbors about Dodd's Kidney Pills. They will tell you that they mean new health all over the body. Thousands of Canadian women recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Had Rough Journey

Arrived in Paris After Conference Had Been Adjourned Until March 2

Ottawa.—Canada's labor delegates to the Paris conference had a tempestuous trip across the Atlantic, which delayed their arrival until after the opening of the International Labour Office had adjourned on January 28, to meet in London on March 2. F. A. Acland, deputy minister of labor, has called to Senator Robertson that a number of important items on the Paris agenda had been laid over to be taken up at the London meeting.

The Canadian delegates found that they would be unable to secure homeward passage for at least forty days. Under these circumstances the Government has called Mr. Acland to remain over, so that he can take part in the London meeting. It is understood that Tom Moore, president of the Canadian trade and labor congress, will also remain in England.

Want Government to Sink Oil Wells

Winnipeg.—That the Dominion Government should spend at least $500,000 in sinking wells in the Athabasca oil fields to provide permanent employment for returned soldier citizens, thus obviating the necessity for charity doles, was the effect of a resolution passed at a meeting of the central branch of the Great War Veterans' Association.

Major G. W. Andrews, D.S.O., was the chief speaker.

Another Excuse Offered

Hun Writer Says Sentencing of Ex-Kaiser Would Endanger Republic

Berlin.—Karl Kaushky, who investigated the causes leading to the war, writes in the Berlin Volks Zeitung:

The passing of sentence on Wilhelm (the former German emperor) before an enemy court would not alleviate the danger of a counter-revolution, but would add to it. Wilhelm would be made a martyr in the eyes of the German public, to whom he would appear as a man sentenced, not for his crime or that, but for being a German. His popularity would surely soar upwards tremendously and he might become a dangerous pretender, in opposition to the German republic."

Here Kaushky is of the opinion that the sentence should not go beyond conceding Holland into appointing a residence for the former emperor on some island where conspiracies with his German friends would be very difficult.

U.S. Manufacturers In Majority

Ottawa.—An interesting comparison of the number of outside manufacturing firms having branch factories in Canada has been compiled by the Canadian trade commission. This shows that while there are scarcely half a dozen British manufacturers with branch factories here, there are some 330 American manufacturers, whose products range from farm machinery and tractors to packing house products.

Berlin.—Baron Von Kist-Lerner's refusal to accept the allied note regarding the extradition of accused Germans was not in accordance with instructions. He had received from Berlin. The German government had requested him to receive it, but he asked by telegraph for permission to edit and his resignation was immediately accepted.

Baron Von Kist-Lerner, it is explained, was relieved at his own request. The note of the entente concerning the surrender of accused Germans was handed Baron Von Kist-Lerner on Tuesday, and the German representative, although he received his formal instructions simply to transmit it to the minister of foreign affairs, returned it to Premier Millerand, declaring his conscience would not permit him to be a participant in the surrender of Germans to the allies.

Von Kist-Lerner demanded that he be relieved from his functions and his request was immediately granted. The accusation against Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria is the deportation from the Lille district the Duke of Wurttemberg is charged with massacres at Namur; Field-Marshal Von Kluck with the assassination of hostages at Senlis and the massacre of civilians at Aerscholt; Field-Marshal Von Mackensen with the pillage in Rummel; Baron Von Der Lancken with the murders of Captain Charles Feynt, the British sea captain executed by the Germans, and Miss Edith Cavell, the English nurse; Admiral Von Capell with the submarine outrages; Field-Marshal Liman von Sanders with massacres of Armenians and Syrians; Gen. Senger with issuing orders to take no prisoners; the Niemey brothers with cruelties to prisoners at the Holstenland camp; Major Von Gerns with cruelties at the Magdeburg camp; Major Rodiger with cruelties at the Ruhleben camp; Gen. Von Cassel with cruelties at the Dolobitz camp; Gen. Von Manteuffel with the sackings of Louvain; Lieutenant Vonnor, Captain Valentiner and Captain Forester with submarine outrages; Gen. Von Tesma with the execution of 112 civilians at Allent; Gen. Von Outrowski with the pillage of Dyanne and the execution of 100 civilians and Major Von Buslow with destruction and murders at Aerscholt.

Dr. Soli Not Wanted

Berlin.—The Zvecht Uter Blatt asserts that Japan had intimated to the German government that Dr. Soli, former secretary of the colonies, will not be persona grata, as Germany's representative at Tokyo. The Kreis Zeitung says that similar difficulties are being raised in Brussels regarding the appointment of Herr Landsberg.

Ford

WE ARE Ford Dealers in this district and have formed an estimate of the number of cars we will require to meet the needs of this territory. We cannot get enough cars to fill that estimate because there are not enough cars being made to fill all dealers' estimates throughout Canada.

The number of cars we can get depends upon the number of orders we send in and the early date at which we send them in, as the Ford Shipping Department follows the principle, "First Come, First Served."

Cars ordered now will not be delivered until March, and deliveries will be uncertain throughout the year. If you do not want to wait for summer or autumn delivery, come in and reserve your car by signing an order today.

Anaemic Paleness Quickly Changed To Rosy Cheeks

Chlorosis or anaemia is simply thinness of blood.

It confined two March Indians, anaemia develops, because the lungs are insufficiently supplied with oxygen, and the blood is consequently unenriched and half starved.

But there is a cure! Dr. Hamilton has solved the problem in his famous pills of Mandrake and Butternut; as a blood enricher their effect is not known.

All the functions upon which life depends are helped by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Richness and purity are instilled with wonderful promptness into the vital fluid.

Healthy color supplants the pallid ashen face.

Better appetite, strong digestion and dreamless sleep are sure to follow, because of the increased blood supply furnished by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Think it over. Will it pay you to look and feel half-dead, to lack color and energy when all can be changed by Dr. Hamilton's Pills?

Better act at once. Your case is more curable now than later on.

Dr. Hamilton personally guarantees his pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Their merit is unquestioned. Thousands of anaemics they have cured and kept well.

They will do just the same for you. Try Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box.

As it happened, Mrs. Hardy was at the gate. She greeted Dave cordially enough; it was not possible for Mrs. Hardy to quite forget her conventional training, just as it was not possible for her to quite forget that Dave was a one-time cow puncher. Encouraged by her mood, Irene determined to settle the Sunday program at once.

"Dave was good enough to bring me up in his car," she said. "And just think! He invites us to drive into the foothills with him next Sunday. Will you come? It will be delightful. Or are you feeling—"

Applied After Shaving

Keeps the Skin Soft and Smooth

MANY men suffer from irritation of the skin as a result of shaving. With some it assumes a form of eczema and becomes most annoying and unsightly.

By applying a little of Dr. Chase's Ointment after shaving the irritation is overcome and such ailments as Barber's Itch and Eczema are cured.

60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Battle & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

"Mr. Elden is very kind," said Mrs. Hardy with dignity. "I have no doubt Mr. Conway will accompany us. He is to call this evening and I will ask him. Yes, I think it very likely we will go."

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

The summer wore on, and autumn followed on its heels. The processes which had been discerned by Conway and enthusiastic operators were now apparent to the mob which followed in the wake of the successful, but many of the victims in the receding flood. The forces which had built up fabulous fortunes were now tearing down, as the boom had fed upon itself, carrying price to heights justifiable only to the most insane optimism, so did the subsequent depression bear down upon scholars until they reached depths justifiable only to the most abandoned dependency.

Building, in fact, the demand was still, carpenters, masons, bricklayers, painters, plumbers, laborers, found themselves out of employment. As in most instances, they had lived to the extent of their income in the prosperous period, or had invested their surplus in the alluring real estate, they were promptly confronted with the necessity of finding work; in reverse gear, and the same mechanism which had built up the fortune was now tearing it down. As the boom had fed upon itself, carrying price to heights justifiable only to the most insane optimism, so did the subsequent depression bear down upon scholars until they reached depths justifiable only to the most abandoned dependency.

It could not be called a collapse. There was no panic, no crash. There was no wild rush to sell. One could not sell without buyers, and there was no buyers. A certain latent optimism, justified in part by the undeniable natural advantages of the city, kept the flames of hope alive in the hearts of investors, or perhaps, referred it to be gradually diminished rather than extinguished by one icy blast of despair.

Mrs. Hardy was among the last to admit that she had bought on an inflated price. She contended that her house was well worth the price she had paid; what if speculation had circumstances which would have left her house was still worth its price. She would stand firm. It was not until Mrs. Hardy, whose attention had been brought there before her notice, attempted to sell her home at a tremendous sacrifice, and had found it impossible to get an offer, that Mrs. Hardy began seriously to consider her predicament.

Mrs. Hardy consulted Conway. He had grown to be her habit to consult on all matters in which she found an interest. Conway had gone out of his way to make himself agreeable to Mrs. Hardy, and his daughter, with, in the case of the former, considerable success. His status with Irene was not so well defined, but the frequency of his visits to the Hardy home afforded the opportunity for an attachment to be developed by impossible degrees, and the day was nearing when Conway would wish to trade upon that attachment.

"How is it, Mr. Conway?" Mrs. Hardy said to him one evening over her fancy work, for she practised an industrious industry in matters of no importance. "How is it that there is no demand for property? You are a real estate expert; you should be able to answer that."

"It is simple enough," Conway answered. "It is all a matter of confidence. So long as confidence was maintained, prices continued to advance. When confidence began to be shaken, prices hesitated. If confidence should disappear, values would follow suit."

"But why should confidence disappear? Isn't this city as good today as it was a year ago? Doesn't it carry the same stock? Are not the farms still producing?"

"That's just it, dear Mrs. Hardy. What? Simply because the banker has given way to the calamity howler. His psychological explanation is simple enough. The world here by faith. Without faith there would be neither seed-time nor harvest. That is true of rising cities, as well as falling crops. But there are always those who ridicule faith; always there, always will be. And as soon as faith disappears, things begin to sink. Just like John, or whoever it was, on the water."

"Peter, I think," corrected Mrs. Hardy. "Yes, yes, I begin to understand."

"Well, it's just like that. I may be a little off color on my scripture, but I have the principle of it, and that's the main thing. And as soon as a city loses faith it begins to sink, just like Peter in the Red Sea."

"I don't think it was the Red Sea," said Mrs. Hardy gently. "But that is a matter of detail. As you say, the

TO ALL WOMEN WHO ARE ILL

This Woman Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Her Personal Experience.

McLean, Neb.—"I want to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to a woman who suffers from all sorts of troubles, as it has done me more good than all the doctor's medicine. Since taking it I feel better, my stomach is better, my head is clearer, my nerves are stronger, my blood is purer, my skin is clearer, my hair is falling out, and my face is more attractive. I have gained weight and strength. My husband and I both praise your medicine for all sorts of troubles."

principle is the main thing. So we have all this—empty houses and shops, unsalable property, and everything, to those who have lost faith—or never had it. To Mrs. McLean, for instance, you remember how she was in the very first trial to break down her faith—that was it, Mr. Conway—I see it all very clearly now—and he and others, like him have brought things to their present pass. Well, they have a great responsibility."

Conway, puzzled though he was in the arts of simulation, found difficulty in maintaining a front. It had not occurred to him that when a woman conceives a dislike for a man, her mind may lead her to professes of deductions that will ultimately saddle the unfortunate offender with the responsibility. He had not considered with which he is not in the most genuine manner connected. It was the most natural thing in the world for a woman like Mrs. Hardy, quite without premeditated insinuation, to find in Dave Elden the cause of effects as far removed as was the collapse of the boom from the good advice he had given her that day in Conway's office. Conway found the experience an illuminating one. It was rich with hints of the possibilities that might arise from apparently innocent sentences dropped at opportune moments. It was proof that the danger of consequences, not in wounding your neighbor, but in allowing your neighbor to suspect that you wrong him.

As a result of this discussion, Dave found himself rather less popular with Mrs. Hardy than before. He treated him with distant civility, showing such courtesies as convention demanded as an honor, not to Elden, but to himself. Dave, accustomed to his light-heartedness with a good woman, was surprised to find that his desire to spare Irene any unpleasantness, he would have treated it with open hostility. He was engaged in one of his serious business, the custody of an old woman's will. He was engaged in the serious business of capturing the heart of Irene Hardy—a task made more easier by the adroitly chosen conversation that he must conduct so effectively, but most awkward with such patience as he could command the voluntary exasperation of the long-suffering. On the whole, he told himself, he had no reason to be dissatisfied with the progress of events. And Irene often met together, frequently accompanied by Conway, as well as occasionally alone. And Irene made no secret of the fact that she preferred the trips in which only she and Dave participated.

On such occasions the warm summer sun poured its ribbon of gold along the crest of the Rockies. The country, with its long, rolling waves of prairie, its clusters of dark green, juniper, its rugged foothills from which grey roots of rock protruded, and the blue background of the mountains, afforded a scene to characterize the arid and more daring were the splashes of color which she committed to canvas in her attempt to catch the moods of light and shade that played over such a landscape. And if she did not speak of love with her lips, she had eyes.

CROSSING ASIA MINOR IN A FREIGHT CAR

Mrs. D. C. Eby

Down came the rain in drenching torrents, for which we were all unprepared. Our raincoats were in the box containing the things for the inland journey, and this was already in the car awaiting our arrival.

A truck from the A. C. R. N. E., with a relief worker who was to travel to the interior with us, was to arrive at 6:15 a.m. The minutes passed—half an hour went by—and still the truck did not arrive. Just as we had given up all hope the driver came, our baggage was thrown in and we were off down the steep, slippery streets of Constantinople with less than ten minutes to catch the ferry boat.

Wet and dripping we arrived just as the boat was ready to move out. A wild scramble for boxes, grips and bundles; a race down the pier, a hurried entrance. The great doors clung behind us and we are on!

Breathlessly we cast an anxious eye about us, and count up our bundles. One—containing a pillow, steamer rug and sweater, is missing. "Goodbye to it!" We cross the Bosphorus to the Asiatic shore, and the inland journey has begun.

Haydar Pasha Station—grossly underfoot and full of murky gloom, is the scene of a jostling, noisy crowd. Natives with heavy trunks and boxes on their backs and heads stoil to all to clear the way.

We stand guard over our baggage in a gloomy corner, while Mr. Eby goes to buy our ticket. It turns out to be a piece of insignificant yellow paper, about five inches square.

The A. C. R. N. E. has requisitioned a freight car for our use. It is to be our home for the next four days, and we are eager to see it. We pass out of the station, down the covered platform. The rain drips generously upon us from the roof. Far down, next to the engine, we find our car. It is black, dirty and dingy, with four barred and prison-like windows; but they assure us that it has been properly fumigated.

We set up our camp beds, one in each corner, the largest box we place in the center, opposite the open doors. That is to be our table. A steamer trunk on either side makes four seats.

At 8:30 the station master rings a bell, the conductor blows his horn, the engine replies with a wild shriek, and we are off.

This is repeated at every station to our great amusement.

The train rocks and sways, so that we find it very difficult to boil water on our alcohol stove. The dishes keep sliding off the table, and we find meal times very exciting.

We hug the coast of the Sea of Marmora for several hours. At Ismid, where the celebrated battleship "The Goeben" is lying, we may grope to the sea, and strike out into the interior.

The hills and valleys of Asia Minor seem wonderfully beautiful, the silver mists wreath themselves round the peaks of the mountains, or stream in veils down the sides. The rain has passed, and all afternoon one great open stretch of country after another rolls into view. It reminds us much of the great Northwest.

All the important stations are under the control of the Allies. We talk with one English soldier after another. Many have malaria; none like the country: all are lonely and want to go home.

On waking next morning, we are at Tebeus (which means "he strikes or beats"). There is one decided change in the landscape. We are now on a sweeping, high tableland, with bare brown hills in the distance. Looking closely, we could discern a village, a village, a village. A wisp of smoke curls up from one of the brown butts. Made from the same clay as the surrounding country, these would scarcely be discernable were it not for the black patches of open windows.

We are interested and amused by the novel names of the stations. The third station this morning is called Hamam—"the bath." The next is Gazligue Hamami—a place where they have a special kind of ashes for the bath. We make much of the next one, "Afion Karchissur"—something about black opium.

We find many English soldiers down with malaria here, their doctor having condemned the water even for cooking purposes.

The next station is Bayork (Johannar)—"The Big Shepherd." We laugh merrily over the name of the following one—Tehai, which means Tea. By now we have reached Teheahodlika. It is dark as some one pronounces this, but as soon as we did so we understood it to mean "The village of the German."

The second night some of us are wakened, listening to the night sounds which we find more distracting than any the day can produce. Just when we have decided that there is really nothing to be uneasy about, and that we are going to be sensible and sleep, harsh guttural tones are heard. The natives on both sides are forced open, a strange revolting odor steals into the room as a crowd of determined natives strive to gain an entrance.

These are chased away, and we settle down again, but alas! this is the land of bees and flies and crawling and crawling things. We are now at Konia, ancient Iconium. We wonder if Paul had any difficulty in getting here?

Next morning we are in the mountains again. The landscape is like a book, opening page by page, revealing new and strange things. We pass through the great, broad valley, the blue haze of the far-off mountains, mountains hurrying their outline in the distance, the grandeur of space and loneliness. The great heart-need of the people of the country has some magic about it, that catches the heart in a net from which one never wholly escapes. We realize something of how Paul's great heart must have yearned over this country and people.

We reached Adana (near Tarsus) Sept. 6th, and to our great joy met many of the Hadjin orphans and Christians. But their stories must follow later.

Governor Declines Irish Invitation

Calvin Coolidge, Governor of Massachusetts, declined an invitation presented by several representatives of the State Legislature to meet Eamon de Valera, President of the so-called Sinn Fein Irish Republic, who is coming to Springfield, in this State. The Governor, it was said, told the committee that he could not accept, and must decline all such invitations. He did not attend the large de Valera meeting in Boston last summer, at which Andrew J. Peters, Mayor of Boston, and David I. Walsh, Senator from Massachusetts, were speakers.

Crown Dating From 1,600 A. D.

Most Ancient One With a Single Exception, in Europe

The rumor, current in the European press some months ago, when the Bela Kun administration ruled in Hungary, that the Hungarian crown was to be sold, seems to have disappeared, and the late government apparently means to keep it. It was an odd circumstance, says a writer, commenting on that rumor and its disappearance, that with so much talk of discarded insignia of royalty, the one crown actually mentioned as being for sale should have been the most ancient one, with a single exception, in Europe. For whereas the German crown, for example, is comparatively modern, and was made no longer ago than 1871 for the former Kaiser's grandchild, this crown of Hungary traces back, at least in legend, to the year 1000, and the sum of 100,000 Swiss marks, about $19,000, which last summer was circumstantially reported as the price for which it was to be sold, does not seem particularly exorbitant.

The colony will get one penny on each shilling of local business. The rate to Halifax will be one shilling a word.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarhal Deafness, that is, by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surface of the system. Catarhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, the air passing around or through it is rendered sound or purulent, leaving and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Many cases of Deafness are cured by HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE. ONE BOTTLE FIFTEEN DOLLARS. For name of Catarrhal Deafness, that cannot be cured by HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE, call on Dr. J. C. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

India Producing Cement

First of Three Modern Works Started in 1914

Within five years a new industry has come into being in India, which seems, at first thought, oddly out of keeping with that land of ancient ways. One does not think of cement construction as characteristic of India, yet in the years immediately before the war so much cement construction was there in progress, that vast quantities of cement were being imported not only from England, but also from Germany, Belgium, Italy, Austria, and Hong Kong. Until 1914 practically no cement was made in India. Then the first of the three modern cement works was started, and now India produces about half of the cement needed for Indian construction.

Fruit Growers Increase Prices

British Columbia Sold Strawberry Crop in Advance

Fresh strawberries and strawberry jam will cost about 20 per cent. more this year than they did in 1919, and raspberries will follow suit, according to information received from British Columbia by the land and resources department, Canadian National railways. It is set forth in the statement that producers in the Gordon Head district, B.C., already have sold 250 tons of their 1920 strawberry crop in advance at 20 cents per pound, whereas the price paid last year was 16 and 17 cents.

It was predicted that the cheapest wholesale price for strawberries this year would be $1.50 per crate, as compared with $1.30 and $1.00 in 1919.

"SYRUP OF FIGS" CHILD'S LAXATIVE

Look at tongue! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver and bowels

Accept "California Syrup of Figs" only—look for the name California on the package, then you are sure your child is having the best and most harmless laxative. It keeps the little stomach, liver and bowels, children love its delicious fruity taste. Full directions for children's dose on each bottle. Give it without fear.

Mother! You must say "California."

A Zulu Bride's Trouseau

A Zulu bride wears one dress in a lifetime—and it is her bridal gown. Papa furnishes it to get rid of the daughter, and his bank account is set back thereby about $15. The gown is described as a "petticoat of rawhide, rubbed with grease and black clay to give it a polish and make it more durable."

Minard's Liniment Co. Limited.
Dear Sirs:—We wish to inform you that we consider your MINARD'S LINIMENT a very superior article and we use it as a sure relief for sore throat and chest. When I tell you I would not be without it if the price was one dollar a bottle, I mean it.
Yours truly,
CHAS. E. FULTON.

Canada's Fire Losses

A fire loss of $8 per capita in Canada, against 15 cents in England, 30 in France and 14 in Belgium, emphasizes the necessity of an encouraging attitude on the part of Canadian citizens toward the fire protection league and kindred helps.

The reason why so many men could not make ends meet was because they were too busily engaged in making one end drink.

Keeping Fit

BY DR. SAMUEL HAMILLTON.

It is because of the war that the perfect physical man has all at once become the idol of the world. You can make of yourself, even rather late in life, almost anything you like. You are not going to get fit in one day, one month, or, perhaps, a year, unless you take enough outdoor exercise to keep the circulation going and practise the athlete's first principle—keep the system clean. He does not give his body a chance to absorb poisons. He not only takes his cold shower, after exercise, but he knows a cleansing of the intestines is important, and he takes occasionally a good regulator and liver cleanser, such as a dose of castor oil, or, what is much better, a tiny pill made up of May-apple, aloin and jalap, and sold by almost all druggists in the land as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

Keep the kidneys in good order also.

Avoid too much meat, alcohol or tea. Drink plenty of pure water, preferably hot water, before meals, and drive the uric acid out of the system by taking "Anurie" (anti-uric-acid). This can be obtained at almost any drug store.

Send a bottle of water to the chemist at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and you will receive free medical advice as to whether the kidneys are affected. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you suffer from backache, sick-headaches, dizzy spells, or twinges and pains of lumbago, rheumatism or gout; or sleep is disturbed two or three times a night. Take heed, before too late! Get Anurie (anti-uric-acid), for it will put new life into your kidneys and your entire system. Ask your nearest druggist for it or send Dr. Pierce ten cents for trial package of "Anurie."

HOW TO TREAT STOMACH TROUBLE

A Tonic Medicine Is Needed to Build Up the Digestive Organs

The old-fashioned methods of treating stomach diseases are being discarded. The trouble with the old-fashioned methods was that when the treatment was stopped the trouble returned in an aggravated form. The modern method of treating indigestion and other forms of stomach trouble is to tone the stomach and rebuild its normal work. Every step toward recovery is a step gained to be lost again. The recovery of the appetite, the disappearance of pain after eating, the absence of gas, are steps on the road to health that those who have tried the tonic treatment remember distinctly. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic, every constituent of which is helpful in building up the digestive organs, and therefore the very best remedy for simple or chronic cases of stomach trouble. The success of the treatment is best shown by hundreds of cases like the following.

"I was suffering from indigestion. Food would ferment in my stomach, and I would belch gas with a burning sensation. Often I would be troubled with nausea, sick headache and dizziness. Notwithstanding that I was under medical treatment, the trouble grew so bad that I would only eat when absolutely forced to, and I was in constant misery. I was finally advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and had only been using them a few weeks when I found they were helping me. I very gladly continued their use, and the result is they have made me a well woman, every vestige of the trouble having disappeared. I am so grateful for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me that I strongly advise any who may be suffering from stomach trouble to give them a fair trial, and I believe that they will find it a sure cure."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail on receipt of 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Lord Beatty's Cocked Hat

When Earl Beatty took his seat in the House of Lords there was naturally much anxiety on the part of the public to see the bluff sailor in rich scarlet robes, trimmed with ermine. People were curious as to whether he would wear his ceremonial cocked hat at the juncture at which his admiral's cap is always set. He didn't—his hat was on straight, not tilted.

Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not be looking for an alibi to catch himself up with.

A Quick Relief for Headache

A headache is frequently caused by badly digested food; the gases and acids resulting therefrom are absorbed by the blood which in turn irritates the nerves and causes painful symptoms called headache, neuritis, rheumatism, etc. 15 to 30 drops of Balfour Seigel's Syrup will correct faulty digestion and afford relief.

Production of B.C. Forests

The total value of forest production in British Columbia for the year 1919 will not be less than $62,000,000, against $54,000,000 in 1918, according to a preliminary survey given. Water-borne shipments of lumber show an advance over the preceding year of 17,000,000 feet, while the value of pulp and paper sold increased from $16,617,250 in 1917 to $12,554,257 last year.

WHY YOU SHOULD BUILD ONLY FROM PLANS

Every building you put up this year and from now on should figure largely in your future.

Whether it be a new house or only a machine shed to will help you make money by saving it.

Just how much it will help depends on how well it fits into your needs now and later.

If you go ahead and build without any plan or any reference to future years and needs you are very likely to find that in a short time the building doesn't fit and you have to re-model, enlarge or build new.

WHATSOEVER YOU DECIDE TO BUILD GET A PLAN FOR IT, WE MAKE THEM FREE.

And just because it is a FREE service don't think that it isn't worth anything.

These plans are made to fit your ideas and your needs
They are made so that your buildings will be strong and durable and cost the least that they can be made to cost and be built right.

Just as soon as you decide to go ahead with any building see us at once for plans as well as material.

A FAIR, SQUARE MOTTO TO ALWAYS REMEMBER

Patronize a home industry that is building up and developing what is absolutely sure to increase the value of your farm properties.

This you can accomplish by always bringing us your milk, sweet or sour cream, or eggs; in fact, any produce you have to sell. We can get you the best market. Our market for good sweet cream, which will bring you the highest price is unlimited.

We have the facilities to freeze it after you deliver it.

When continuously patronizing us you have the advantage of selling either the whole milk, fresh sweet cream or sour cream, whichever will bring you the most dollars.

We ask your support and co-operation. Dairymen, our business is open for your inspection, from start to finish.
Come in and have a visit and see what we are planning to do for you.

AROUND THE TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Barnes returned from a two months trip in the Spokane and Idaho country where they were visiting their young son, Elmer.

Mrs. A. Crossman was the victim of an accident last Friday while attending the funeral of Mr. Shantz at Waterloo church. The services were over and she was just getting into the rig when the horses gave a sudden jump, which threw her onto the back of the front seat, hurting her shoulder badly. Dr. Evans was called but could not say how badly she was hurt as the shoulder had swollen very badly before he reached her.

J. V. Bercht left for Edmonton
Monday to attend a meeting of the Alberta Fair Association.

There are five Sundays in the month of February this year. Any giddy young things having a sentimental desire to be married on Sunday, Feb. 29, had better get busy, as this coincidence will not occur again for forty years.

The Dog Pond hockey team made a much better showing against the Didsbury high school team Monday night than they did the first game.
They held the home team down to four goals in a good, clean game, while they gathered in three goals for themselves.

A. R. Kendrick and W. McCoy were in Edmonton on business this week.

J. A. Smith, inspector of high schools for Alberta, is in town on business. An improvement in the Didsbury school in the near future is hopefully looked forward to. Incidentally, Mr. Smith, curled with P. R. Reed's rink Monday evening and thoroughly enjoyed the game.

It has been suggested, in view of the success accomplished by the fathers and sons, that a similar affair be held by the mothers and daughters.
If they follow the precedent established by the fathers and sons, and make the "mothers pay," it will be pretty soft for the mothers. Just look at all the young men in town who are crazy to pay the total expenses of the daughters for life.

Inspector Aylesworth is inspecting the schools in the Didsbury district this week.

J. R. Moon has a fine display of deer and moose heads in the offices of the Western Mutual Fire Ins. Co.

The G.W.V.A. will give a dance in the New Opera House Friday evening, March 5; admission including supper, $1.50 per couple.
The boys are making an effort to raise sufficient money to equip a nice club room in Didsbury, and as this would not be for the sole use of returned men, but for everyone, hearty material support should be extended.

It will soon be time to dig up those old fishing rods.
